

Try new things. Even if they do not work, try unique compositions, use objects in the environment, and have the group step out of their comfort zone. Testing out new ideas is the best way to capture the in between, candid moments.

